Dear [redacted]

This is to remind you of your date with my Defense Intelligence School Seminar on Tuesday, 24 April, at around 2:30 PM. I think Jack Thomas has told you that his seminar and mine will be combined for your presentation since Jack has to be up in Cambridge late that afternoon and needs to be at the airport at 2:30. I hope you don't mind. Both our Seminars are large groups - I have 19 this session - so we'll have to use the auditorium which makes it a little less personal, unfortunately.

I suggest you cover the same ground on resource management and budget that you covered last Fall, particularly that complicated and fascinating triple helix of the budgeting sequence. Your description of the process is by far the most lucid and comprehensible I've ever heard and would be of particular benefit to my DoD troops. They're a bright and inquiring bunch so you can expect a number of questions and interruptions.

I'm sure you remember how to get to DIS but I'm enclosing some directions just in case as well as a schedule of our speakers - very much the same as last Fall's with the addition of Dix Davis on NFAC and the NIO's - which he carried off beautifully yesterday.

Glad you can come again and looking forward to your great coverage of a most complicated topic -

DIRECTIONS TO DEFENSE INTELLIGENCE SCHOOL
Anacostia Annex

From I-295...North. Take the South Capitol Street Bridge exit. Just after merging into Bridge traffic lane, cut off to the right. You'll go about two-thirds of the way around a small circle, pass one stop sign, and take a narrow straight road on which there is a sign for Anacostia Park. The road ends at Anacostia River Drive. Turn right.

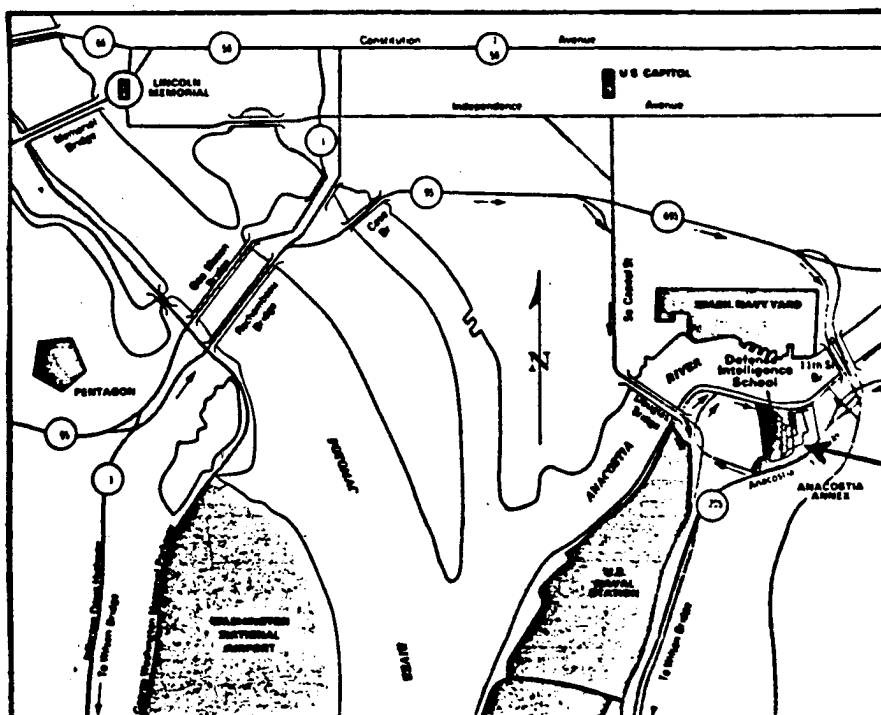

A short distance down the road there is the main entrance to the school compound on the right. (The river is on the left). Turn right into the compound.

From I-295...South. Take the Howard Road exit. After a few blocks, there will be a traffic light at a small circle. You will be in close proximity to the S. Capitol Street Bridge. Bear to the right about one-fourth around the circle onto a narrow straight road with an Anacostia Park sign, the road ends at Anacostia River Drive. Turn right.

A short distance down the road there is the main entrance to the school compound on the right. (The river is on the left). Turn right into the compound.

From the Southwest Freeway... take the 11th Street Bridge across the Anacostia River. Be in the second lane from the left (third from the right). Just after the two right lanes separate to go South, there will be an overhead sign for Anacostia Park and a small sign for the U. S. Naval Station. This is the exit and it is a very quick one a sharp turn to the right and down a short hill. At the foot of the hill, turn right. The road (Good Hope Road) will come to a "T", turn left and approximately one quarter of a mile will be the Anacostia Annex Gate on the left.

NOTE: Building T-5/T-28 is entered through a single story "passageway" which is the access control point at the center of the building. The access "passageway" may be entered from either the front or the rear of the building. Building T-4 (Yellow) is entered on the far side of the building.
